Alliance Overview

The Adelaide Independent Schools Alliance (AISA) consists of a group of premier Adelaide non-government schools who collaborate in promoting South Australia as an education destination for overseas students.

The facilities offered in the group of alliance schools are outstanding, as are their records for outstanding graduate achievements.

AISA schools understand the need for a holistic approach to student recruitment. We recognise that support for the welfare of a student extends beyond the initial enrolment period. It can be daunting to arrive in an English-speaking country equipped with limited language skills and possessing only a partial awareness of the local culture. This is true for all visitors, but it is particularly true for young, school-aged students.

AISA recognises the challenges faced by international students who want to have a successful transition into their Adelaide mainstream school, and so uses a broad induction process from the time they first arrive in Adelaide.

At the core of the Alliance model is a cost-effective program through which students become informed and prepared for their life in a new city.

As a part of their transition, each student will undertake a comprehensive assessment of their English language skills. The results of this test will assist in the development of a personalised learning plan to help them meet the entry requirements of the Alliance schools.

Education System of South Australia

World-leading high quality primary and secondary education

The quality of primary and secondary education in Australia is amongst the highest in the world.

The results of global independent reviews of the OECD's PISA International Student Assessment Program indicate that Australian primary and secondary schools are among the best in the world in terms of specific subjects such as reading, science, and mathematics.

This is due to Australia's well-established primary and secondary education system and educational quality standards for future talent development.

Primary and secondary schools in Australia not only value students' learning, but also value and support the overall development of individuals, such as teamwork, creativity, research and analytical skills, communication skills as well as the cultivation of integrity in and out of the classroom. These qualities are especially important for students' future life and career development.

Australian National Curriculum System

Primary and secondary education in Australia includes pre-school education, primary school (including Reception), junior high school, and senior high school education. Students are educated in school for 13 years (from Reception until the end of senior high school).

Australia's primary and middle school curriculum is a nationally harmonised standard developed by an independent statutory body, Australia's Curriculum, Assessment and Reporting Agency (ACARA). It is described as a three-dimensional educational system with seven key competencies, eight major areas of study, three inter-disciplinary priorities (Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures; Asia and Australia's engagement with Asia; Sustainability).

School Structure

Primary Education - Reception to Year 6

General capabilities are a key dimension of the Australian Curriculum. They encompass knowledge, skills, behaviours and dispositions that, together with curriculum content in each learning area and the cross-curriculum priorities, will assist students to live and work successfully in the twenty-first century. The Australian Curriculum includes seven general capabilities. These are:

- Literacy
- Numeracy
- Information & Communication Technology (ICT)
- Critical & Creative Thinking
- Personal & Social Capability
- Ethical Understanding
- Inter-cultural Understanding

Middle School Education - Year 7 to Year 10

To enable students to develop these key competencies, schools offer a variety of core and elective courses covering eight learning areas. The key eight learning areas are:

- English
- Mathematics
- Science
- Humanities and Social Sciences
- Art
- Health and Physical Education
- Languages
- Technologies

High School Education - Year 11 to Year 12

High school students are free to choose courses based on their career plans, preferences, and specialties to further develop their skills and abilities, deepen their understanding and cognition, and master complex skills.

Note: Each state in Australia has its own high school certificate, with the South Australian High School program known as the SACE (South Australian Certificate of Education). However, this does not affect students' admission to any university in Australia, because the high school results of all graduates are converted into the nationally recognised Australian Tertiary Admissions Rank (ATAR), which are used by universities to enrol new students.

Internationally Recognised Qualifications

International students who successfully complete high school in South Australia will receive a high school certificate - the SACE (South Australian Certificate of Education). This certificate is not only recognised by all Australian universities, but also widely recognised internationally. According to the statistics released by the SACE Board, after completing the SACE program, many students have been admitted to the world's top universities, such as Oxford University and Cambridge University in the United Kingdom; Yale University in the United States; University of California at Berkeley; University of Toronto, McGill University; and the National University of Singapore, the University of Hong Kong, etc.

In addition, many Australian primary and secondary schools offer the International Baccalaureate (IB) through the Primary Years Programme (PYP), Middle Years Programme (MYP), and some offer the senior high school Diploma Programme (DP). The IB DP (two-year program) can be used as an alternative to the SACE program, but requires students to have comprehensive language skills, a high level of learning ability, and be open to a challenging curriculum.

SCOTCH
ADELAIDE

"Scientia, Humanities, Religion"

Scotch College Adelaide was established in 1919 and is situated in the picturesque foothills of Adelaide in South Australia. Over the past century, Scotch has firmly established itself among the elite independent schools in South Australia with a reputation for offering a forward-thinking curriculum and schooling experience that focuses on providing students with the tools to live an impactful life, not simply achieve a high ATAR score.

Scotch prides itself on being different, providing an education that is the cornerstone of a long and fulfilled life. In addition to a strong and intensive curriculum that includes classic academic subjects, Scotch offers a broad range of subject choices at various year levels, including business and entrepreneurship, drama, dance, visual arts, film making, and languages. In addition to core subjects, Scotch offers a huge selection of co-curricular opportunities for students, including sport, performing arts, traditional Highland Dancing, pipe band, oratory programs, outdoor education, and so much more.

Scotch College Adelaide has been proudly co-educational since 1972. In preparing young people for life beyond school, interacting with both male and female peers is an integral part of cultivating young leaders and good citizens.

Purruna Spencer Newton Centre, Scotch's brand new wellbeing and sports centre, symbolises and enhances what makes Scotch College one of the most effective and high-achieving schools in South Australia, if not the nation as a whole.

Offering yoga, meditation, and a cafe with sweeping views over Adelaide, Purruna includes access to a 25m swimming pool, indoor basketball and volleyball courts, and a high-performance gym for students to train in. The facility also offers mental health and wellbeing support for college students, with flexible classroom facilities, collaborative workspaces, and exercise rooms for meditation, yoga, and dance.

The $27m facility has been built on the principle of surpassing 'sustainable design' in favour of 'regenerative design' thinking, ensuring the built environment has a net positive impact on natural systems. Purruna aims to be the first school in Australia to complete LBC Certification at any level, a huge step not only for Scotch College but for projects across Australia.

From the Early Learning Centre to Year 12, Scotch has developed a holistic approach to Wellbeing and Positive Education both in and out of the classroom in an implicit and explicit manner. Scotch's well-being vision is to develop engaged and connected learners who possess the knowledge, commitment, and passion to enhance their own and others' lives.

At the top of Scotch's 20-hectare Middle & Senior School campus is a fully functioning farm that houses alpacas, pigs, chickens, lambs, and more, while also featuring a fully functioning wine-making facility.

In addition to the day-student offering, Scotch offers a world-class co-ed boarding experience for up to 108 students from Australia and abroad through its on-campus boarding house, Rosevear. All boarders are provided with numerous opportunities to develop their life skills through a range of enhancement activities with real-world applications, including starting a small business, first-aid training, boat licenses, and defensive driving courses.

Scotch students achieve great things academically, and our graduating students consistently attain high ATAR scores. It is the focus on a holistic education that sets Scotch apart from its peers. Our students typically follow pathways into Health Sciences with multiple professional disciplines (including Medicine, Optometry, Veterinary Science, Paramedics, Specialist Nursing and Allied Health), Business and Entrepreneurship, Creative Arts, and professional degrees including Law, Mathematics, Humanities, and International Studies.

SAC was one of the first schools in Adelaide to welcome international students. With over 30 years' experience of welcoming students from around the world, we value the inter-cultural understanding that comes from building relationships with students, their families and schools in other countries. The International Student Program at St Aloysius College is rich and diverse, providing opportunities for long-term and short-term international students as well as a range of study tours, tailored to the needs of the visiting schools. Our Mercy values underpin everything we do at SAC. One of those values is hospitality, and we ensure that all visiting students experience the joy and warmth of new friendships, no matter how long their stay.

SAC is located in the heart of the city of Adelaide, which gives students and staff easy access to many resources and facilities. The University of Adelaide, University of South Australia, SA Museum, Art Gallery, State Library, Adelaide Zoo, Botanic Gardens and Central Market are only a short walk from the school. Students are also able to participate in various cultural activities that take place in the city centre, such as the OzAsia Festival, Festival of Arts, and many other events.

St Aloysius College is conveniently near to public transport, with all major bus routes providing close access to the school. Our central location also gives students access to the free tram service for ease in travelling across the city.

EDUCATING GIRLS. INSPIRING CONFIDENCE

"Educating Girls in a Supportive Environment"

St Dominic's Priory College in North Adelaide was established in 1884 by the English Dominican Sisters, led by Mother Rose Columba Adams. In its 140 year history, the College has become known for its excellence in the education of girls in the Catholic Dominican faith tradition.

St Dominic's Priory College is an independent Catholic day school of 680 students. We are proud to educate girls from all over the world in a diverse, inclusive, and inspiring learning space – united in a common respect for Catholic traditions and values. Our multi-cultural environment, coupled with a vibrant city location, lends itself well to the safe and supportive school environment, which we work hard to maintain for all students and their families.

We believe our role is to gently guide international students as they learn to understand and adapt to an Australian way of life, without losing touch with their own heritage. It's important for us that our girls feel connected to their history and sense of belonging as they grow into young adults. Over the years, we have had the pleasure of welcoming international students from China, Italy, Hong Kong, Korea, and Vietnam. These girls have contributed to the rich cultural fabric of the college.

St Dominic's Priory College is located only 2.5 kilometres north of the Central Business District of Adelaide, 20 minutes from the Adelaide Airport and 20 minutes from the picturesque beaches along our foreshore. The College is serviced by excellent bus routes, and the campus features over 7 acres of facilities.

At a senior level, students will study the South Australian Certificate of Education (SACE) as a pathway to university or study and work options. Extensive subject selection and career counselling are offered to each of our students to ensure they are aware of their options and post-school choices.

ADELAIDE

"Your Future Starts Here"

University Senior College was founded in 2002 as a secular, co-educational, independent secondary school for Year 10 to Year 12 students seeking an academic and supportive pathway to university studies and beyond.

At USC, we are committed to preparing students to bridge the gap between secondary and tertiary study; USC is currently the most significant feeder school to the University sector in South Australia, in particular the University of Adelaide.

While our specialist and experienced team of teachers work with students to create a teaching and learning partnership, students are encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning. The school day at USC is shaped to cater for students choosing from a comprehensive range of subjects which have clear links to University entrance. In this dynamic adult environment, students are able to identify and follow realistic study programs that provide pathways to rewarding career options.

Our unique partnership with the University of Adelaide creates a learning pathway that can be inspirational. Ready access to academic staff and specialist facilities provides an enriched and innovative learning experience. We aim to promote a cooperative environment that fosters the development of knowledge, skills, attitudes, self-reliance, and a sense of self-worth that enables students to maximise their personal potential. Our students come from very diverse backgrounds, with a substantial local intake from many schools across Adelaide and an international intake of students arriving from Eastern and South-Eastern parts of Asia.

"Virtute et Veritate - with Truth and Moral Courage"

Welcome to Walford Anglican School for Girls, where since 1893 we have been educating and empowering young women. We live in an exciting and complex time, where young people will require a range of attributes to navigate a future we can only imagine. Our campus has been carefully designed to promote the sense of belonging which began in the family home of Walford's first Headmistress. Friendships are easily facilitated across year levels and each girl is known by name and valued for her unique talents and strengths.

International students are encouraged to discover their strengths and realise their potential through a broad curriculum and a wide range of co-curricular and sporting opportunities. Walford offers the South Australian Certificate of Education. The SACE is an internationally recognised qualification providing a future pathway for entry into Australian and International universities. Highly qualified and experienced teachers who are passionate about their subjects work closely with the girls in an atmosphere of collaboration and respect.

The deliberate size of our school allows for each girl to be known as an individual and to feel a strong connection to the community. Students are cared for and supported and have access to student and careers counsellors and medical staff as part of our multi-faceted pastoral care and wellbeing program.

Students at Walford are immersed in a community that empowers them to achieve their best in pathways that are right for them. Our alumnae network is active within the life of the school, helping students to see what you can be through mentoring and engagement initiatives.

The Boarding House is situated on the school campus, so the girls have the benefit of using school facilities after hours and on the weekends. The tennis courts, grounds and the pool are really enjoyed in the warmer months. Senior students have their own rooms and every room has its own ensuite bathroom. The Boarding House has a positive and productive atmosphere. Younger students have supervised homework times whilst the older students work more independently. Boarding staff communicate regularly with teachers to ensure that any academic concerns are quickly addressed and they keep in close contact with parents.

Ariel, from Hong Kong, has been boarding at Walford since Year 9 and plans to become a veterinarian after finishing Year 12. "Australia finds so many opportunities and resources for me to reach my goals. The Boarding House has been welcoming and caring. The boarders are like my sisters; they are friendly and we live together as a big family."

Our curriculum is designed to provide girls and young women with the tools needed to think deeply, challenge their perspectives, and to engage purposefully in learning that is contemporary and relevant to the world in which they live. We are proud of our students' consistently strong academic results which reflects the positive learning culture that is fostered by staff and students working collaboratively at Walford.

Our Year 12 classes consistently exceed national benchmarks with exceptional ATAR results. Approximately 50% of our girls achieve results placing them in the top 10% in South Australia and we are always very proud of the high number of merit certificates awarded to Walford students.
